FATHER AND SON.

BY MAUDE E. WALKER.

CHAPTER I.

"Now, sir, go out of that door, and never, so long as you live, dare to cross over its threshold again."

"Very well, sir, I will obey you to the last hour of my life."

The first of these speakers was a man whose life had slid beyond its fiftieth birthday. His hair was sifted with gray, and wrinkles had begun to gather on his forehead. He was tall, fine-looking, and of commanding presence, though the veins on his temples were swollen with passion. As he spoke he rose up, and brought down his clenched hand on the table with a blow which sent a shiver through it.

The last speaker was a youth just on the threshold of his twentieth year. He had the strong, stern feature of the elder man, and the thin, compressed lips, but there was a softer light in the brown eyes, and something in the whole face which would have won you quicker than the old man's, though it was stern and livid as the dead. As he rose and walked to the library door, and answered his father with those words which sealed his dismissal from his home, and sent him out into the world helpless and alone, soft, eager words streamed like a silver-flowing rivulet down the stairs, and caught the young man's ear, just as his hand was on the door knob:

"Edward—Edward, I say, where are you going?"

And the next moment bounded down to him a fair child, whose golden hair was the color of the dandelions, which were just opening in the spring meadows, while her azure eyes were full of smiles, deepened and confirmed by the sweet lips beneath them.

"I am going, Mary—don't ask me."

But as she lifted up bright, wistful face, he suddenly placed his hand over it, as though it was more than he could bear.

"Oh, Edward, what is the matter? Have you and papa been quarrelling again?"

"Yes; and now I must leave you."

His voice shook huskily along the syllables.

"For how long?"

"Forever, little sister! He has sent me away, and I shall never come again."

"Oh, Edward, Edward!" and she lifted up her little soft, white arms, and closed them around his neck.

"You don't mean it. You won't go and leave your little Mary? She can't live without you;" and she pulled down his cheek to her face, and the tears dripped like rain upon it.

"Oh, yes, she can, if she'll only make up her mind to it." He was trying to speak in a cheerful voice now, and caressing the golden ringlets in which the May sunbeams were fluttering. "She'll be a brave, good girl, and put a bold face on the matter, and I won't forget her when I'm gone, and I shall write her a long letter one of these days."

"Don't, Edward, don't. It'll break my heart. What shall I do without you to take me to ride and to tell me funny stories, and help me to take care of my flower-beds; and what will you do without Mary to love and to tease you, to comb your hair and bring your slippers? Oh, I can't let you go!" and she clung to him, her sweet face washed with tears and her small figure shaking with sobs.

He took her up in his arms and pressed her tightly to his heart, and the sternness went for a moment out of the young man's face.

"I can't help it, Mary, little sister that I love better than anything on the face of the earth, and I want you to remember this, whether you ever see me again or not. But it won't do to give way now. Father has turned me out of his house once and forever."

And here his face settled back into its old sternness once more.

The little girl stood still and shivered. "Oh, Edward!"

Then her sweet little face suddenly flashed up through its tears to him.

"I will go straight to papa, and beg him to take you back," and she would have sprung away from her brother, but he held her back forcibly.

"Never, Mary, never will I look upon his face again. It is useless to intercede now. He has turned me, like a dog, from his threshold, and I cross it now for the last time."

The stern face, and the clenched hand which he brought down on the door knob froze the tears on the child's face.

Then the young man turned toward her, and the fierce light went out of his eyes.

"Mary, little sister, good-by. Don't forget me, and pray for me every night."

He broke down here, and kissing her forehead three or four times, he darted out of the house.

CHAPTER II.

"But, papa, you haven't sent him away forever, and he will come back, some time?"

And she pressed up her soft, wet cheeks to the old man's and her small fingers fluttered amongst his gray-sprinkled hair like a flock of newly fledged birds.

"Mary, you must never speak to me of him again. Edward offended me past forgiveness, and he is no longer a son of mine or a brother of yours. I have disowned him. And now, remember, I must be obeyed."

The old man held her, his fair, young child, in his lap, as he uttered the cruel words, his face still rigid, and his brow knotted with blue veins; but his hand rested tenderly on the bright hair, for Mary Reynolds was her father's idol.

There was no sound in the great library but the broken sobs of the little girl.

"Come, daughter, don't." It was wonderful how those stern tones fell into a sweetness that was like a mother's. "Papa will be kind to his little girl, and make her very happy, and she must not trouble him by grieving so."

At last the child lifted her head and her glance fell upon the portrait of a lady opposite, set in a richly carved frame.

The face was still young, and the sweetness of the azure eyes, and the fluttering smile about the lips, and the soft delicacy of the whole face, would have won your heart to it at once.

"Papa, I am glad now that she died before I can remember her."

"My child, what do you mean?" with tones full of amazement.

"Because, papa, it would have broken her heart."

The old man set down his child, and she went out of the library. His stern lips did not quiver, nor his iron will falter in its purpose, but there rose up before him a fair picture of that young face, above which the grass had been growing for eleven years, as it bent with proud mother tenderness over a little brown curly head, which she was lifting up for its father to kiss. And the baby stretched out its hands, and crowded triumphantly, as his fingers clutched the man's hair, and this baby was his first born child, and he had turned him forever from his doors. Mary had spoken the truth. It was well that her mother was dead for it would have broken her heart.

William Reynolds, the banker, was a stern, resolute man, honorable in his dealings with all men, but sympathetic pitiful to none.

He had married late in life a woman much younger than himself, one who combined rare graces of heart and mind, and who had opened the hidden springs of tenderness in this cold, undemonstrative nature. Their son had inherited the warm impulses of his mother, with the inflexible will of his father, and after the death of the former, a gradual estrangement developed itself between the two, and the gentle, healing element of the mother was not there to reconcile those she loved. Matters grew worse and worse, until, after having graduated at college, the young man flatly refused to gratify his father's darling ambition of succeeding him in business, he having chosen the law for his profession.

A long and severe altercation ensued betwixt the father and son. Harsh, fierce words passed between them, for both were equally determined and angry, and the whole ended in the rich banker's turning his son forever from his threshold.

CHAPTER III.

"No hope?"

"None at all, my dear sir. I am compelled to tell you that your child will never behold the sunset."

The proud, stern man turned away, hid his face in his hands, and groaned heavily.

The sunshine fluttered and flitted like the sweet tremulous dreams of youth, all about the lofty chamber in which that fair child lay dying, smitten suddenly by fever, which had drunk the spring of her young life, and kindled her pulses with fires that death only could quench.

"Papa, papa," the voice came up faint and eager from the parched, pallid lips, and the old man went to the bedside and leaned tenderly over the white, glistly face, which wore that look which faces only wear over which the grass will grow in a little while.

"What is it, my precious child?"

"Papa, I heard what the doctor said, and now I am going away from you so soon, you will let me see him just once more before I die?"

The banker's face grew white as the little frozen one beneath it, and he made a deprecatory motion with his hands. Mary raised herself painfully from her pillow, and clung to him.

"Oh, papa, you won't refuse your little Mary's last prayer? You will be sorry if you do, when I am gone, and I shall see mamma in a little while, and I shall know her face in heaven, although I never did on earth; and when she asks after her boy how can I tell her that you wouldn't let me see him?"

"Lie down, Mary. Your brother shall be sent for," answered the stricken man.

CHAPTER IV.

"Has he come, oh, papa, has he come?" and she gasped out the words from lips that were growing cold in death.

"Yes, Mary, darling sister, I am here," and the young man sprang forward and folded his arms about her, and his tears dropped on her head—for they had shaven away the long golden curls which crowned it—like rain. She smiled up in his face, and her little cold fingers clambered tremulously up his shoulder, and rested with the old caress in his dark brown hair. Then her face grew troubled.

"It is growing dark, I cannot see you. Papa, Edward—take hold of my hands."

And the old man and the young man took her small hands, and she clasped theirs together.

"Papa, will you take him back to your heart once more? I may tell mamma that you have forgiven him?"

"I will take him back—I have forgiven him," and the old man's voice was husky because of the sobs.

A last smile went like the dying sunshine over the child's face; and Mary Reynolds's soul went out like the day, without convulsion or struggle.

And the father and the son fell into each other's arms and wept like Jacob and Joseph of old.

"Blessed are the peacemakers for they shall see God."

Persons troubled with diarrhoea will be interested in the experience of W. M. Bush, clerk of Hotel Dorrance, Providence, R. I. He says: "For several years I have been almost a constant sufferer from diarrhoea, the frequent attacks completely prostrating me and rendering me unfit for my duties at this hotel. About two years ago a traveling salesman kindly gave me a small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Much to my surprise and delight its effects were immediate. Whenever I felt symptoms of the disease I would fortify against the attack with a few doses of this valuable remedy. The result has been very satisfactory and almost complete relief from the affliction." For sale by J. T. Day.

Hazel Green's poet and artist on his way to Campton recently, was seen in a wagon with our colored friend, Noah Taylor, and both were eating a lunch. The poet was heard to say, Noah pass another cold biscuit, and I will tell you who I'll vote for in November. The biscuit came, and the deal was made.

The Farm Journal is unlike any other paper; for one thing it prints no quick medical advertisements; for another it takes five-year subscriptions and gets the paper to its subscribers the full time if they are anywhere on this planet, even if they move two or three times; if they die their heirs get it. Now we are going to send the Farm Journal for the balance of 1899 and all of 1900, 1901, 1902 and 1903, nearly five years, to every advance paying subscriber to THE HAZEL GREEN HERALD, but better speak quick, as we have only a limited number Farm Journals to offer on these terms.

The Eagle, King of All Birds, is noted for its keen sight, clear and distinct vision. So are those persons who use Sutherland's Eagle Eye Salve for weak eyes, styes, sore eyes of any kind or granulated lids. Sold by all dealers at 25¢

THE Democrats of Mt. Sterling and Montgomery county met at the court house in that town on Monday last, about 1,000 of them, and passed a series of resolutions repudiating Goebel and Goebelism, and asked all Democrats of the state who are opposed to fraud and in favor of a free ballot, to meet with them at Lexington, on August 2d, and take some action toward putting a new man at the head of the Democratic ticket. From the sense of the resolutions passed at the Mt. Sterling meeting, we infer that the Democratic ticket as nominated at Louisville, save the Kenton county man, is acceptable, and presume an effort will be made at the projected meeting at Lexington to put a better man than he in. It is possible for the Democrats to win at the November election, and if they nominate a clean man we can win. A man who can head the ticket without entanglements of any kind—one upon whom all Democrats can unite—can lead to victory, and such a one is Hon. James D. Black, of Knox county. He is a gentleman whom every Democrat will be proud to honor—a man whose escutcheon is emblazoned with enlightened ideas. In brief a Democrat upon whom there are no flies, and a leader who can lead us to victory. Let them who believe the party greater than any man, unite upon Hon. James D. Black, for governor, take the rest of the ticket as it stands, and the Democratic party will march on to victory and eternal glory.

Written for THE HERALD.
THE PLACE FOR ME.

I've dwelt in cities large and small,
Midst fashion's bright array,
And seen fair beauty's every charm,
With grandeur rich and gay;
I've revelled in society's class,
Where all was bright with glee,
But something softly whispered,
This is no place for me.

I've dwelt within the villages,
Where grandeur were less fair,
Where happiness surely could be found,
But, O, it was not there
To make life joyous and serene,
And brighten it with glee,
The gem I sought for was not there;
That was no place for me.

I dwell now in a cottage neat,
Near by the waving corn,
A jewel's there within the house
The purest e'er was born,
The gem I sought was found at last,
And filled my heart with glee,
I ask no other boon on earth,
This is the place for me.

SAM WILSON.

Our "poet and artist" received quite an ovation on his return from Campton. Henry Pieratt was the leader of the band, it was neither a cornet or a string band, but the enchanting strains which floated through the air was nothing more than select music from cow bells.

After 14 year of honest toil, it looks as though all our work must spoil WITHOUT SALT TO SAVE IT. Just walk up and lay a dollar down, and I'll be a happy man in town!

By special arrangement made with the publishers of the FARM JOURNAL we are enabled to offer at paper to every subscriber who pays for THE HERALD one year for only $1.00 both papers for the price of ours only; our paper one year and the FARM JOURNAL from now until December 30, nearly 5 years. The FARM JOURNAL is an old established paper enjoying great popularity, one of the best and most useful farm papers published. This offer should be accepted without delay.

John Evans left for Mt. Sterling last Friday.

New wheat is now on the market, and selling from 68 to 70c.

The threshing machines are busy in this section at the present.

Taylor Day and family arrived from Torrent on last Thursday.

Miss Naba Long was visiting friends on Grassy creek last week.

Mr. Scott, boot and shoe drummer, stopped at the Day House last week.

Asa Pieratt and wife were the guests of Mrs. Alice Pieratt on Sunday.

Mrs. Katherine Swango, of Stillwater, was in town Saturday and made THE HERALD a pleasant call.

Miss Ada Cecil was a pleasant caller at Mrs. Alice Pieratt's on Sunday.

Hon. Chas. Cardwell, of London, was in town Saturday on legal business.

While the street fair craze is going the rounds Hazel Green should catch it.

Will Gevedon, one of Powers Grocery Co's., best drummers, was in town last week.

John Ohara and wife, of Lincoln county, moved back to his boyhood home on Laurel creek.

Rev. J. H. Wallin will preach at this place Sunday morning and evening at the usual hours.

Mrs. Dora Swango began the consolation school on Monday last with an attendance of 45 scholars.

A GREAT record of cures, unequalled in medical history, proves Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses merit unknown to any other MEDICINE.

G. B. Maloney, of Lee City, has moved into J. T. Day's property, vacated last spring by R. B. Noddy.

Your taxes are due and must be paid now. So please call and settle, and save trouble, as I am compelled to collect.
H. F. PIERATT, D. S.

Mrs. Lucinda Williams, of color, has the thanks of the editor and is better off for a mess of very fine sweet beets.

Abner Trent, a citizen of Laurel creek, near Hazel Green, is exceedingly low with consumption, and can't possibly recover.

Several of our citizens attended the 'Teets Bros.' show at Lee City last Saturday, and they report several knock-downs during the day.

Miss Dora Swango is advancing rapidly in the art of landscaping, devoting only vacation hours to the study. Her last picture is quite a success.

People Believe what they read about Hood's Sarsaparilla. They know it is an honest medicine, and that it cures. Get Hood's and only Hood's.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills, relieve constipation assist digestion. 25c.

The Republican Ticket.

The Republican convention at Lexington, which met on the 12th inst., nominated the following state officers:

For Governor—W. S. Taylor, of Butler county.

For Lieutenant Governor—John Marshall, of Jefferson county.

For Secretary of State—Caleb Powers, of Knox county.

For Attorney General—Clifton J. Pratt, of Hopkins county.

For Auditor—John S. Sweeney, of Bourbon county.

For Treasurer—Walter R. Day, of Breathitt county.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction—John Burke, of Campbell county.

For Commissioner of Agriculture—Capt. Throckmorton, of Pendleton county.

Coughed 25 Years.

I suffered for 25 years with a cough, and spent hundreds of dollars with doctors and for medicine to no avail until I used Dr. Bell's Pine Tar Honey. This remedy makes weak lungs strong. It has saved my life.—J. B. ROSS, Grantsburg, Ill.

Willie Kash opened school at the Public Square on Monday last with an attendance of 27 scholars. The inclemency of the weather, busy times with crops, etc., more than anything else accounts for the number enrolled on the first day, as the district has about 60 in the school age. Willie holds a first-class certificate from three counties, Powell, Lee and Wolfe, and in all the schools he has taught heretofore he has rendered entire satisfaction to patrons and pupils, and to his credit, he it said, the scholars have showed marked improvement.

We have heard some people say that Kentucky is not up to date. We do not credit such remarks as worth of repetition. This year she will lead all states in the matter of Fairs. The Lexington Horse Show Fair and Carnival, August 8 to 12, is the most gigantic scheme of its character ever attempted and is worthy a city of ten times Lexington's proportion. Write E. W. Shanklin, Secretary, for the handsomest catalogue you ever saw, or apply at this office.

Thrasher Comb's home, near Campton, don't look like the same building since our poet and artist has left; he has made a wonderful change in the look, with its snow-white body, trimmed with dark blue. It stands today one of the prettiest homes in the county, and will bear inspection.

Lung Irritation

is the forerunner to consumption. Dr. Bell's Pine Tar Honey will cure it, and give such strength to the lungs that a cough or a cold will not settle there. 25¢. at all good druggists.

Rev. H. D. Adams will hold divine services on Sunday evening at the Christian church, of this place, at the usual hour. Also, he will preach at the Buchanan school house Saturday night and Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Scott Coldiron, who with her family, who have been residing in Michigan, returned to her mother, Mrs. Henry Sample, and her husband will follow in a few days, as Kentucky is the dearest spot on earth to them.

Dr. Mason Kash and wife, who have been with their daughter, Mrs. Floyd Day, of Jackson, for several weeks past, have returned home. Mrs. Kash arrived Friday evening last, and the doctor came Tuesday.

WANTED—The White House Laundry of Winchester, Ky., wants an agent in every place in Eastern Kentucky that sends out Laundry. Write for terms to PENDLETON & JACKSON, Winchester, Ky.

"I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family for years and always with good results," says W. B. Cooper, of El Rio, Cal. "For small children we find it especially effective." For sale by J. T. Day.

Don't forget that you can have the Courier-Journal or Dispatch and THE HERALD one year for only $1.00 cash in advance, and besides we will send you the Farm Journal until the end of the year 1893.

The farmers of this vicinity were very thankful for the good and much needed rains Sunday and Monday. The corn and garden truck were almost suffering.

A DIAMOND FOR A DOLLAR.

A Limited Special Offer Which Will Last For Ten Days Only.
Genuine Barrios Diamonds have a world-wide reputation. It is almost impossible to distinguish them from genuine diamonds costing hundreds of dollars each. They are worn by the best people. We will forward a genuine Barrios diamond mounted in a heavy ring, pin or stud to any address upon receipt of price, $1.00 each. Ear-rings, screws or drops, $2 per pair. Ring settings are made of one continuous piece of thick shelled gold, and are warranted not to tarnish. Special combination offer for ten days only: Ring and stud sent to any address upon receipt of $1.50. In ordering ring give finger measurement by using a piece of string—also full particulars. Address plainly,

Mr. COOPER,

Hazel Greene, Ky.

DEAR SIR:—You will please print the following notice in this week's HERALD: Wanted—A teacher for common school district, No. 17, Wolfe county, a man of good morals and good habits, holding of a first-class certificate. Apply to the trustees of said district on Holly creek, Ky., Yours, &c.,

ISAAC ELKINS.

Biggle Berry Book is an excellent little manual worthy of a place in every farmer's library. The book is condensed and practical, as valuable for the villager with his 10 x 12 berry patch as it is for the commercial berry grower with his twenty-acre field. The price is 50 cents, free by mail; address the publishers, Wilmer Atkinson Co., Philadelphia.

Failing to get our paper we were compelled to print a half sheet on manila paper. We hope it will not occur again.

GREENBACKS or Government Money.

At close of our Civil War in 1865, there appeared in the London Times the following:

"If that mischievous financial policy which had its origin in the North American Republic during the late Civil War in that country, should become indurated down to a fixture, then that government will furnish its money without cost. It will have all the money that is necessary to carry on its trade and commerce. It will become prosperous beyond precedent in the history of civilized nations of the world. The brain and wealth of all countries will go to North America. THAT GOVERNMENT MUST BE DESTROYED OR IT WILL DESTROY EVERY MONARCHY ON THIS GLOBE."

The famous Hazzard circular, to capitalists in New York, and the Buell Bank circular to United States Bankers, both emanating from London, and the fabulous corruption fund raised in England and Germany, estimated at $1,500,000, were the agents that secured the closing of our mints against silver.

The "walk into my parlor" policy of England, during and since the Spanish War, is the latest evidence of English Diplomacy in shaping the destiny of the United States Government.

Notwithstanding the famine price of wheat, the Spanish War, and fabulous expenditures of money by our government during the past year, gold has increased in value eleven per cent. and all other values decreased in the same proportion.

For a thorough understanding of the money question, or silver issue, the Cincinnati Enquirer has uniformly given evidence of its ability to teach, explain and produce all facts and truth. It is a paper that ought and can be read by all classes with pleasure and profit.

Ordinance.

Be it ordained by the Board of Trustees of the town of Hazel Green, Ky., that the following boundary of land be annexed to the town of Hazel Green, Ky.:

Beginning at the present corporate limits or corner where it intersects the river, just below the old Hazel Green steam mill; thence a straight line crossing the river to a double water birch, near the bank of the river at the west corner of G. B. Swango's garden; thence a straight line to a large sugar tree, near the present residence of G. T. Byrd; thence a straight line to the top of the ridge, at the old corner of W. C. Coldiron and Roe B. Day; thence a straight line to the old water mill site at the river; thence a straight line crossing the river to the Sulphur Spring in J. M. Rose's field, on the old line of Mrs. Eliza Trimbel's land; thence with her old line and the Gibbs' old line to the State road, at the top of the Rocky hill; thence crossing the State road, and running up the point to the line of H. F. Pieratt; thence with his line to the top of the ridge, to the present boundary of said town.

Ordered that this ordinance be published in THE HAZEL GREEN HERALD for five successive times.

MAYTOWN MISSIVES.

Frank Young, who has been sick, is improving slowly.

Capt. Sample made a flying trip to West Liberty last Friday.

Capt. Sample and wife are contemplating the trip through in a buggy.

The enrollment of the public school at present numbers near 70 at this place.

Joe L. Henry, wife and little son are visiting Mrs. Henry's father, Mr. Thomas, of this place.

John W. Cravens, of McCausey, passed through here en route to Hazel Green and this side. (?)

The farmers of this vicinity were very thankful for the good and much needed rain here Monday.

Mrs. F. N. Day and C. E. Mize, of Hazel Green, passed through here last Tuesday from Montgomery county.

Died, Sunday night, the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Childers, Little Ella, aged about 12 months.

Misses Lizzie and Julia Sally and Calvin Trimble visited their grandfather, Jordan Wills and wife, Saturday and Sunday.

Mrs. Dr. R. E. May, of Judy, and Mrs. Josie Henry and family, of West Liberty are visiting their parents, Capt. Sample and wife, this past week.

M. L. D.

Our baby has been continually troubled with colic and cholera infantum since his birth, and all that we could do for him did not seem to give more than temporary relief, until we tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Since giving that remedy he has not been troubled. We want to give you this testimonial as an evidence of our gratitude, not that you need it to advertise your meritorious remedy.—G. M. Law, Keokuk, Iowa. For sale by J. T. Day.

CONSOLATION CHAT.

Miss Arminta Glaspie was a pleasant visitor at Mrs. William Blankenship's on Sunday.

Elijah Blankenship, commonly known as the Drake, paid Ezel a visit on Sunday. Guess what queen he seen.

The Consolation school opened on Monday, the 17th, with 47 scholars in attendance. Mrs. Dora Swango, teacher.

Misses Annie Belle and Hannah Blankenship, two charming young ladies of Consolation, were pleasant visitors at the home of Miss Corrie Bias.

A camp meeting will be held at Caekey school house commencing on Thursday night, the 20th, and continuing until the 30th inst. All denominations are respectfully invited to be present.

During the rain on last Sunday afternoon a terrible wind swept over portions of Consolation, laying the corn stalks on the ground, and on Wm. Blankenship's farm it blew some 40 or 50 panels of fencing down.

There was quite a large attendance at the Consolation services on Sunday last. The expected minister failed to appear, and Rev. Barnett Blankenship, assisted by Rev. Harlin McClure, filled the pulpit. They delivered their discourse in an earnest manner, and pleased the congregation.

CRACKER JACK.

CAMPTON SPARKLES.

Mrs. Arnold and Abbie Tyler were visitors at Sheriff Combs' one day last week.

Mrs. Charlie Wallace, of Paris, Ill., a lady of refined taste, was visiting at Thrasher Combs' last week.

On last Saturday the Teets Bros. show appeared at this place and the tent was packed with people who enjoyed the performance.

Thrasher Combs' hired boy reported a strange looking animal in this vicinity, which resembled a panther. The Sheriff took his trusty Winchester, and with one shot, laid the brute low.

Mrs. Brack Little and daughter, Rosie Lee, and Miss Sarah Combs, of Campton, and Mrs. D. D. Land-saw, of Stillwater were visitors at Thrasher Combs' one day last week.

The Farm Journal is 22 years old, prints 40 tons of paper a month, and is out of debt; it is cut to fit every progressive farmer and villager. Don't you want this fine little paper? Very well, pay a year ahead for THE HERALD and we will have the Farm Journal sent to your address for the balance of 1899 and all of 1900, 1901, 1902 and 1903—nearly five years—and it will get to you if alive and anywhere on this planet.

STILLWATER SPARKLES.

G. B. Rose will start the Trace fork school today.

Our school opened Monday with Lou E. Chambers as teacher.

C. C. Rose threshed 44½ bushels of wheat from 3½ bush. sowing.

John Moore and B. D. Rose traded horses one day last week.

The threshing machine is among us at this time and is doing good work.

B. D. Rose and son went to Mt. Sterling court, and will bring back with them a new wagon.

Our merchant, J. H. Rose, has gone to the Mt. Sterling court on business.

Miss Nanie Tutt, who taught the Buchanan school last year, will teach it again this year.

The Murphy school has been divided equally between Hilt Dean and Sam Kash.

Roscoe Wells has gone to the head of Red river where he will teach the Shockey school.

The Mormons are in this neighborhood again, and have baptised the wife of Solomon Osborn.

John Tyler bought four head of the finest yearling steers on this creek from R. L. Carrol, and he now goes with them and a lot more, to the Mt. Sterling court.

Your scribe attended church at the Harst school house last Sunday. There was a large crowd there and a very interesting sermon preached by Rev. John Muncey.

Billie Wells has returned from Lexington where he has made the third trip to have his eyes doctored. He is greatly improved, and thinks that he will gain his eye-sight back again as good as ever.

Miss Malvie Smith, formerly of this place, is now teaching the Greenville school in this county. We can recommend her as being a lady in the highest grade and a scholar, and hope she will win a reputation as a teacher that all will be proud of.

T. F. Dunn, member of the 3rd U. S. cavalry is still at the Jefferson barracks, Missouri, and is enjoying the best of health. He will leave there the last of this month to go 90 miles to Arcadia to target practice for about six weeks. July 27, '99. OMEGA.

Mr. Van Hart, of Beattyville, has accepted a position with The Union City Lumber Co., measuring lumber.

Mr. Kirby, of Michigan, is here making preparations for heading and stave factory which will be in operation in a short while.

Berry Pieratt, of Ezel, passed through our place last Friday, en route to West Virginia in interest of his firm.

The R. R. V. Railroad had a collision last Friday on the Jackson hill,—no one hurt and no damage done.

J. W. Cravens paid Hazel Green a visit last Sunday. The supposition is that John is fixing to run a strictly "Kash" business.

GILLMORE GLEANINGS.

This scribe visited Teets Bros. show at Lee City Saturday.

Born, to the wife of Ashberry Banks, the 15th inst., a boy.

Farmers have been hustling this week getting up their oats and grass.

Oliver M. Pratt shot and killed a blue crane the other day, that measured 7 feet from tip to tip of wings and stands 5 feet 7 inches, with a beak 7 inches in length. A bird not common in these parts.

The readers of THE HERALD that are acquainted will be some what surprised on hearing what become of Lizzie Calhoun, who left here July 1st, telling her people she was going to Tazewell county, Va., the place of her birth, to visit relatives, and would be absent 12 months. Her father received a letter from her saying that she met her espoused in Lynchburg, Va., Mr. Rolder, got married, then sailed east to her intended home in Trenton, N. J., where she is now comfortably situated and well pleased, and said father send me THE HERALD, cannot now do without it.

CONNAUGHT 2D 35

This celebrated English Hackney stallion imported to the United States on June 1883, will make the season of 1899 at stables of John H. Pieratt, at Hazel Green, Ky., at the extremely low price, blood beauty considered, of

$6 TO INSURE A LIVING COLT

Or $5 To Insure A Mare In Foal money due when the fact is ascertained either case. A lein on the colt will be retained for the season money, and event the mare is traded off or bred another horse the money will then be paid. Every care will be taken to prevent accident, but I will not be responsible should it occur.

DESCRIPTION AND PEDIGREE.

CONNAUGHT 2ND, 3512 is a bay, full 16 hands high, black mane, tail, good style and action and a fine reter; 9 years old this spring. He was sired by Victor of Beety 1587; dam Bonnie by Highflyer 1006; Victor of Beety 1587 Reliance 667, grand dam by Congress Reliance 667 by Confidence 158, dam by flemman 670.

NOTE.—His complete pedigree contains many crosses of the thoroughbred coach horse—but is too full to quote. Breeders are invited to call and see and examine his pedigree at my stables. Respectfully,
